Chiefofstaff.com Adds Risk Management Feature to its Corporate Strategy Management Software

Hartford CT & New York, NY, December, 2018 - Chiefofstaff.com LLC, developer of the Chiefofstaff.com® cloud-based Corporate Strategy Management (CSM) software suite has added Risk Management functionality to its application. Strategies for managing risk form an important part of any organization's Corporate Strategy Management Plan.

Chiefofstaff.com now offers a simple yet powerful tool to help manage this risk.

With organizations undertaking increasingly complex and ambitious projects, Chiefofstaff.com clients are now able to closely monitor both the impact and probability of operational risks related to these projects. Chiefofstaff.com clients can assign numerical Risk Probability and Impact scores to any project. Those scores are then multiplied to generate an overall project Risk Level. Organizations can define the ranges of Risk Level that represent low, moderate, or high risk. Then, over the course of the project, users can update the status to reflect the current risk level.

Chiefofstaff.com software uses these inputs to present information in clear, intuitive heat maps, allowing users to compare current levels of risk to those forecast prior to the beginning of a project. Organizations can also assign weighting factors to amplify the impact of high-priority projects. Chiefofstaff.com allows managers to see aggregated risk levels across an entire organization or at any lower organizational level – business unit, department, etc. – and with a mouse click, takes them right to the projects that might require additional management attention.
